

James Bakke is the executive director of Barnabas Foundation, which provides planned giving marketing, planning and gift administration services to the supporters of over 900 churches and Christian ministries throughout the U.S. Prior to his current role, his experience includes serving as national director of planned giving at World Vision, director of planned giving services at Barnabas Foundation and as a senior consultant to nonprofits with Leadership Resource Group. Jim holds a Juris Doctorate from Regent University and a bachelor's degree from Trinity Bible College. He and his wife, Teresa, have two children.