

Camille Anderson Lickliger earned her bachelor's degree in Music from DePaul University and a JD from Valparaiso University School of Law. Camille has 18 years of experience in the gift planning field and is delighted to be at Northwestern, where she has led the gift planning team since 2012. As executive director, Camille leads a diverse group of professionals that includes frontline gift officers and gift planning specialists. Camille also serves as a liaison to the Law School, Bienen School of Music, School of Communication, and Feinberg School of Medicine. Prior to joining Northwestern University, Camille served as assistant vice president for planned giving at the Florida State University and director of planned giving at DePaul University. She started her career in higher education as an alumni relations officer at DePaul.