

Lisa Johnson
VP, Training & Development Services, OperationsInc

Lisa Johnson serves as OperationsInc's VP, Training & Development Services. Over her 20 year career, she has delivered hundreds of courses in areas including sexual harassment prevention and awareness training, managing remote teams, diversity and sensitivity, professional development, leadership development, delivering feedback, email etiquette, performance management, and management training programs. In her professional training career, she has been successful in applying blended instructional design techniques and methodologies using multiple virtual and face to face delivery methods including e-learning, classroom-based workshops, simulations, and interactive webinars.

Lisa earned a B.S. in Business Economics from the State University New York College at Oneonta.